

Benjamin M. Peters - Associate

Email: bpeters@darroweverett.com

Phone: \(401\) 453-1200453-1200)

Bio

Benjamin M. Peters is a member of the firm's Corporate & Business Transactions, Energy & Infrastructure and Environmental Practice Groups. His practice supports clients with transactional and regulatory matters related to business formation, project development, financing-related documentation and regulatory considerations, and compliance issues arising in energy, infrastructure, and environmentally regulated industries.

Ben brings a strong foundation in environmental and administrative law, along with advanced academic training in marine affairs and natural resource management. His background allows him to assist in the analysis of complex regulatory frameworks affecting public and private development initiatives, energy and infrastructure projects, and property-related matters.

Practice Areas

- Corporate & Business Transactions
- Energy & Infrastructure

- Environmental
- Regulatory and Administrative Law
- Municipal Law
- Real Estate and Property Law
- Finance and Public-Private Partnerships

Prior Experience

Before joining DarrowEverett, Benjamin gained experience working with government agencies, academic institutions, and environmental organizations on matters involving regulatory compliance, land use, coastal resiliency, and environmental policy.

Insights

- Chisels That Can Change a Stone-Set Irrevocable Trust - via JD Supra, February, 2026
- Massachusetts Zoning Bylaws Update: DOER Pushes for Consistency in Solar - via JD Supra, February, 2026

Bar Admissions

- Rhode Island

Education

- Roger Williams University School of Law, J.D.
- University of Rhode Island, M.M.A, Marine Affairs
- West Virginia Wesleyan College, B.S., Biology